SENATOR J. N. CAMDEN

Who Will Be Nominated For the Short Term Senatorship By a Tremendous Majority, is One of the Most Extensive Farmers in Kentucky, and One of the Ablest Men in Public Life.

He is at Washington Valiantly Aiding the Administration in Putting Through Anti-Trust Legislation, Leaving His Campaign to Be Conducted By Every Loyal Democrat.

For the first time in more than a generation Kentucky now has a practical, every day farmer as one of its representatives in the United States Senate. At the same time he is one of the most elegant, brilliantly educated and able men in the State. Senator Camden, of Versailles, Woodford county, Kentucky, is now filling the unexpired term of the late Senator Bradley, by appointment of the Governor, but, under the law, his appointment only extends to the November election, although there is but two and a half months of the unexpired term left after the election.

Upon the death of Senator Bradley

the duty of appointing his successor devolved upon the Governor. The appointment of J. N. Camden to that exalted position was inevitable because, not only in recognition of the splendid ability he possessed for the position, but no Democrat in the State surpassed him in party loyalty, and once probably equalled the incalculable services rendered the Democratic party in the campaign of 1910. Senator Camden laid aside his tremendous private affairs and gave his personal attention and more money to the campaign fund than any single individual in Kentucky in the battle to regain Democratic control of the State in 1910. He was the Chairman of the State Democratic Campaign Committee which conducted the fight, and Kentucky rewarded his immeasurable services to the party by returning the handsome majority of 31,000 for the Democracy. Hence, it was that his appointment to the vacancy in the United States Senate was forthwith made. The Democracy of the State can not repay him. Yet, we are amazed that two Democrats are opposing him for the nomination as the Democratic candidate for the remainder of the short term, which is only two and one-half months after the November election.

On what theory can any thinking Democrat cast his vote against Senator Camden? It can not be said that in point of transcendent ability either Col. Young or D. H. Smith are his superiors. It can not be said that either of those gentlemen in point of moral worth or fitness for the eminent position surpass him. For the sake of argument place them on the same plane in those particulars, then any honest, grateful, thinking Democrat would and must choose him because of the eminent party service rendered by him in the memorable campaign of 1910. His opponents can not, nor do they pretend to possess such claims upon the party for actual services rendered as has Senator Camden. All are high-toned, elegant gentlemen, but when it comes to scrutinizing the view of arriving at the choice of the Democracy, every consideration leads to the election of Senator Camden.

Indeed, were he not endorsed by the voice of the Democracy of this State, such would be a species of ingratitude which would endure to the great discredit of the party. Moreover, although but a short time in the Senate, he is today one of the conspicuous members of that body. President Wilson has openly and publicly commended him and his expressed views upon the great questions of reforms in trust legislation now pending before that august body. The President relies upon him as one of the administration's staunchest supporters to bring about at the present session of Congress the enactment of the proposed laws dealing with the regulation of the trusts of the country. We all know that now the administration needs the presence and co-operation of all the Democratic Senators at Washington, and Senator Camden, ever alert to the conscientious discharge of a duty, refused to leave Washington to conduct his campaign for the Democratic nomination, leaving that matter to the consideration of all fair-minded, thinking Democrats of the State. That he will be nominated by an overwhelming majority is conceded on all sides, but the Democracy owes it to him to give him an unprecedented majority. Let every Democrat personally become an active campaign manager in his behalf. AND, TOO, CAMDEN'S NOMINATION AND NAME ON THE BALLOT IN NOVEMBER IS A HOST WITHIN ITSELF TO THE CAUSE OF THE PARTY.

We need him infinitely more than he needs us. Consider, Democrats, what the President of the United States and the Democratic colleagues of Senator Camden would think of the intelligence of the Democracy of Kentucky were it to take from the party councils this magnificent young man whose eminent ability has already received the seal of approval from the President and his Senatorial colleagues, and who is now a recognized force in the administration's staunchest backers in this critical period at Washington, and send in his stead for the remaining two and one-half months a new, untried force.

Senator Camden has lived for more than 25 years upon a large farm four miles from Versailles, Woodford county, Kentucky. He lives there winter and summer. He is intensely interested in all matters pertaining to the agricultural interests of Kentucky. He has done more single handed for the uplift of the farmer in this State than any other one man. He is a man of inherited fortune and his father, the late United States Senator John N. Camden, of West Virginia, himself a man of vast business interests, intended his son to become actively in charge of big business interests, but Senator Camden when a young man married a Kentucky girl and chose to make Kentucky his home, living on the farm mentioned from that date. There he has continuously lived from that period, and his life bears witness to his sterling qualities. It is said that there is not a single farmer in that section of the State who is not an enthusiastic supporter of Camden. And why should they not be? Every one of them know and recognize in him one of their number. He gives great barbecues and invites all farmers everywhere to attend. On these occasions he has experts from various agricultural colleges present to give lectures to the farmers on various topics of interest to them. He pays all bills himself. Everything is free to all who attend.

On July 20, at his home, another barbecue will be given to the delegates of the State Convention of the Kentucky Division of the Farmer's Educational and Co-operative Union of America. Senator Camden has telegraphed that he will probably be unable to leave his duties at Washington, but his magnificent home will be turned over to the delegates on that day, whether he's there or not. Everything is free to all who attend and all are invited.

Democrats, show your appreciation of this man on the first day of August by casting your vote for him. In truth, it would be nothing short of a disaster in Democratic ranks to defeat him. But as to that there is not the slightest danger. He deserves the unanimous endorsement of the party.

A Democrat.

BRECKENRIDGE DEMOCRATS! LET'S DO OUR DUTY.

General Bennett H. Young is a candidate for the short term for United States Senator. No man in Kentucky is riper in experience or more able and better fitted to help beat the Republicans in November than he. In her many struggles in Kentucky, in victory and defeat he has served the Democratic party faithfully for over FORTY YEARS, asking no reward. Now, in the evening of a brilliant and useful life, after giving to his nation, state, party and people the best service there was in a true man, after doing as much for others as any living Kentuckian, he asks you for but one vote that he may sit as senator for a few months. Has he earned it? Can you deny it?

Who is he? As a brave youth, his heroic and daring acts as a Confederate soldier commanded the attention and admiration of two continents. His fights, capture, trials and final liberation compose a thrilling and interesting chapter in Rebel history. Being driven from his native land, he was educated in Scotland and finally, after the war was over, returned to Kentucky where he became, at once, a leading citizen. He has long been known as one of our state's great lawyers and he is the South's most eloquent Confederate orator and its greatest historian. After Goebel's death, when life was unsafe and political chaos reigned, he did much by wise counsel to restore the state to peace and happiness. His untiring efforts, tender solicitude and great accomplishments on behalf of his less fortunate comrades, since the war, have made him the most beloved of Confederates and has resulted in his election and re-election as Commander-in-Chief of the United Confederate Veterans Association, which is THE REMNANT OF EARTH'S GREATEST BAND OF WARRIORS. Maimed and disabled, and cared for in the Confederate home, or nursed in declining years by tender hands at home, every man true to the cause we loved and for which our people fought will rally to our Chief; and, those democrats who know not the sacrifices he made, who know not of the bitterness of the cups from which he has drunk in private life, who know not how each time he emerged a stronger and more beloved man—can well afford to inform yourselves. And, the talent, character, eloquence and force that he offers to Democracy, as a candidate, is worth more than money, even if money could be legally used. He belongs to no section, nor faction, but is the candidate in whom the representatives of THE LOST CAUSE ask recognition.

To you we commend our friend. In victory or in defeat, he will conduct himself as a brave and loyal soldier and true democrat, and will reflect credit on his supporters whether in the Senate chamber or at home with those who love him best.

Respectfully submitted,

W. SHERMAN BALL FOR CONGRESS

TO THE VOTERS OF BRECKENRIDGE COUNTY:

I am asking for the Republican nomination for Congress in this district. I feel that I need no introduction to the people of my home county, having been born and reared here, and lived and worked among you all of my life. Your interests have been my interests and your people are my people. You have known my successes and failures; my virtues and my faults. You know my capacity and my limitations. I have always tried to be public spirited and enterprising, supporting and doing that which seemed to be for the best interests of the community and the county, both from a moral and commercial standpoint. How well I have succeeded you will probably know.

I have always been a Republican in politics and have taken an active interest and part in all things political. I have spent a great deal of time, thought, labor and money and made many sacrifices for my party. I have fought its battles in season and out of season; in adversity, failure and defeat as well as when success has crowned our efforts and prosperity smiled on us. In doing this I think I have made many warm and loyal friends and of course some enemies.

I appeal to all Republicans in Breckinridge County to come out and urge others to come and give to me a large and substantial vote and handsome majority in the primary, and thereby insure my nomination and at the same time demonstrate to the rest of the district that my home people are for me.

To my friends who are not Republicans, I would ask that you lend your aid, influence, good will and encouragement to me in the primary and thereby assist me in polling the largest possible vote. I believe that I am justly entitled to this recognition and support regardless of your politics, and I assure you that I will always remember and properly appreciate it.

Sincerely yours,

W. SHERMAN BALL.

BOURBON STOCK YARDS DESTROYED BY FIRE

More than five acres of buildings at the Bourbon Stock Yards, Louisville, Ky., are in a mass of ruins, following a most disastrous fire which occurred there at midnight Monday. One thousand head of sheep and cattle were burned. Loss estimated at $350,000 fully covered by insurance.

DEMOCRATS PAY HEED!

Unanswerable Reasons Why Gov. James B. McCreary Should Be Nominated as the Democratic Candidate For the Long Term Senatorship.

The approaching primary election which determines the nominee of the Democratic party for the long term Senatorship is the most critical election which has ever confronted the party. Unquestionably upon it depends whether the party is to continue supreme in the affairs of the State, or whether it is to become a faction-torn, disrupted party, thereby destroying its supremacy and opening wide the avenues to the Republican party, the present minority party, to again assume control of the State government.

This peril is the result of the unfortunate issue on the liquor question attempted by Congressman Stanley and Gov. Beckham to be used as the means of each obtaining the nomination for the exalted position of the Democratic nominee for the long term Senatorship—one espousing apparently State wide prohibition and the other apparently championing the continuation of the manufacture and sale of liquor in its many forms. The history of all political parties is that whenever this question is raised as a party issue that it always marks the decline, defeat and ruin of the party thus banded with it. Tennessee, our sister and neighboring State, is an example which all thinking Democrats should observe, and from its experience we should seek our guide against political disaster. Though the Democratic party is the majority party in that State, yet for years the Republican party, the minority party, has had control of the State government—all because there exists within its ranks there the "wet" and "dry" factions.

In the present campaign the bitterness engendered within the Democratic ranks is apparent to all. From one end of the State to the other the followers of those two gentlemen openly declare that if either be nominated the opposing faction will not support him. The Republicans, for the first time in several years, sniff from afar the smoke of battle within Democratic ranks which portends Republican victory at the polls in November. The inevitable result of a divided party in the event that either Congressman Stanley or Gov. Beckham is the nominee. That is the reason why Ex Gov. Willson and Col. Ernst and other prominent Republicans are fighting so vigorously for the Republican nomination. DEMOCRATS, WILL YOU BLINDLY FALL INTO THE CHASM OF POLITICAL DISASTER WHICH IS AHEAD, or will you, like sensible men, weigh the consequences at stake, and then vote in that way which will conserve the integrity of the Democratic party in this State?

It is conceded by everybody everywhere in the Commonwealth that if Governor McCreary is the nominee that no faction will oppose him; that his nomination insures Democratic success at the polls, as it always has. It has been less than three years since Gov. McCreary was unanimously called forth by all factions of the Democratic party—then disrupted as now—to head the ticket to redeem the State from Republican rule, which, by reason of the strife within party ranks four years previous had surrendered the State to the Republicans. How well did he succeed! The wisdom of the call for him was unmistakably manifested in the results at the polls in November, 1910, when a Republican majority of 18,000 was converted into a grand, old-time Democratic majority of 31,000!

They say, that is, his opponents, that he's too old now. Well, he is but two and one-half years older now than then. His mental and physical vigor is that of a middle-aged man. This is verified by his splendidly active record as your Governor. THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY NEEDS HIS CANDIDACY NOW EVEN GREATER THAN THEN. Don't let partisanship for any candidate imperil the very existence of the grand old party which for more than sixty years has been a valued and valuable heritage for each succeeding generation. It would be blind folly! Both Stanley and Beckham are young men, and there is ample time for each to receive the political preferment he may deserve at the hands of his party. But above all save the party. Remember a wet and dry faction within the party's ranks is fatal to its domination of State or county affairs. To nominate either Stanley or Beckham automatically divides the party into such.

But separate and apart from the need of Gov. McCreary's nomination to save the party, is there a more conscientious, deserving, faithful Democrat in the State? Has he not served with distinguished credit, loyalty and fidelity the Grand Old State in its loftiest political positions? In all his long years of public life as Governor twice, as U. S. Senator, as Congressman and as State Legislator, is there a single blot or stain upon his whole political career? Is it not one continuous record of fidelity to his party and to the people generally? Is it not true that the closest scrutiny of his personal and political career discloses that, indeed, his is rare in that ought cannot be said to his detriment in all these years? It is not at all reasonable to conjecture that a parallel career in the political history of the State will ever be written. Moreover, a more gallant, Confederate soldier never donned the gray than he. It is history that in his teens he enlisted as a private and that when under 21 years of age he was promoted to a Lieut. Colonel for gallantry on the field of battle. Is there a true Kentuckian whose very being does not thrill with pride for this kind of a man? His candidacy doubtless presents to you for the last time an opportunity to pay tribute to one of the old veterans who wore the gray. Will you violate the teachings of your father, and that which he cherished fervently, by refusing to vote for a man whose young life was imperilled on many battlefields fighting for that which he and all who espoused the Lost Cause then believed should prevail? He who does undoubtedly does violence to his conscience.

Democrats, remember that a vote for McCreary is a vote for party unity, conservation and success; that a vote against his nomination is a vote for party dissolution, disruption and disaster. By your vote trample on the liquor issue within the party's ranks and thus serve notice to all aspiring office-seekers in the future that he dare not try to inject into a Democratic campaign any issue for personal gain which imperils the existence of the party.

Stanley's Louisville speech opened the eyes of the Democracy of the State to the bitterness of the strife between him and Beckham occasioned by the liquor question, and from one end of the State to the other Gov. McCreary's nomination was immediately accepted by all thinking Democrats as the only safe, sane and sure solution of the present party strife, and thousands of former adherents of those two gentlemen immediately enlisted under McCreary's banner.

Will you join them? or will you vote against his nomination, thereby pulling down upon your heads the Temple of Democracy, our State's chief asset.

A Democrat.

MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN CONTINUES AT HARDINSBURG, IRVINGTON AND STEPHENSPORT

EVERYBODY JOIN THE HEALTH LEAGUE NOW

The Health League Campaign is now on in Breckinridge County. A house-to-house canvass was made in Cloverport yesterday and the work will be continued at Stephensport, tomorrow; Irvington Thursday and at Hardinsburg Friday. Every home will be solicited in these towns for new members at one dollar a year. Funds to be used in establishing the visiting nurse work.

If sufficient funds are raised the nurse will arrive here early in the fall. It is certainly hoped that the campaign will be a success—and the success depends upon each individual. No one should fail to co-operate for the county needs the nurse—the young men and women who are dying by inches with tuberculosis and many who are endangered by it, need her. She must come. Give your dollar to the campaign and join without solicitation.

WELL-KNOWN FARMER

Dies at Kingswood--Willis Green Lawson Taken After a Few Days Illness.

Kingswood, Ky., July 27.—(Special)—Willis Green Lawson, a well-known farmer, aged 13, died at his home July 16, after an illness of only a few days.

His funeral was preached by Rev. R. C. Gilpin, and his remains were quietly laid to rest in Cedar Hill cemetery at Irvington. Mr. Lawson's reputation as being a good man and a citizen has extended far. He was always patient, loving, sympathetic and ready to lend a helping hand to those who were in need, and leaves a host of friends to mourn his loss. As a business man he will be greatly missed. His great intellect and thinking ability greatly enabled him to be a blessing to the business world.

Mr. Lawson professed religion when at the age of eighteen, and when we look back over his life we are forced to say there is a reality in the religion of the Lord Jesus Christ, since it has enabled him to outlive the storms of life, surmount the difficulties, overcome the tests and give a living testimony that it is blessed to live in the Lord. This was not only a testimony of Bro. Lawson years ago, but as the end drew near, he called his loved ones to his bedside one by one and said, "I can't be with you much longer; meet me in heaven," and when the end came he was as brave as a mighty army; giving different expressions that all was well with his soul.

Mr. Lawson was married August 21, 1893, to Miss Clara Allen Claycomb. To this union was born five children—two boys and three girls—all of whom are living. He was married to Bettie Collins December 30, 1913, which was a happy union but so soon broken.

We, as neighbors, relatives and friends extend a hand of love, wishing to express our profound sympathy to those who are left to mourn his loss. But we would say, weep not as those who have no hope. When death is swallowed up in victory and we are wafted home to heaven above, I am sure we shall see him there.

MEMORIAL

On Sunday evening, July 19, at 7:40
p. m., the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. McClellan and took from them their baby girl, Ora Bell, age three months and sixteen days. The baby was critically ill of whooping cough and fever a little over a week, and the little one's vitality could not withstand the disease. Ora Bell was an exceptionally bright child of a loving disposition and won her way into the affection of every one who knew her. Idolized by her parents, death has made desolate a happy home and cast a shadow of gloom over loved ones that time only can heal.
Consolation and sympathy can avail little in dispelling the gloom that hovers over the family, but the thought that she is happier in a home above should give them comfort. Sleep on, dear little Ora Bell, peacefully be thy sleep; thou art gone, but not forgotten.
Never will thy memory fade. Grieve not dear father and mother, for little Ora Bell is not dead, she is only sleeping in the realms of perfect bliss.
She's only waiting to greet you some sweet day in that land that is bright and fair.—Her cousin, Josie Sahli.

Go to Church and Get Acquainted With Your Clergyman; He's Not a Bad Sort

"I CAN'T be a hypocrite," was the ready excuse of one man when asked why he didn't attend church. "I know that I am not righteous and that I cannot practice what the church preaches."

There is hope for this man. He is the kind the church wants.
If he is not righteous he is not happy. Let him acquire the habit of GOING TO CHURCH and he will get a broader, better and happier view of life.

We cannot all be saints. But surely a man can forget the temptations of the world for one hour or one day each week. At least for the hour or so that he is in church he can really think over the big things in life. Let him listen to the word of God and do his best. Of course there are some persons in every community who will criticize as freely the man who GOES TO CHURCH as the man who stays away.

NO MAN WHO GOES TO CHURCH CAN BE A HYPOCRITE LONG. DEEP DOWN IN HIS HEART HE KNOWS THAT HE CAN-NOT SELL GOD A GOLD BRICK. IF ORIGINALLY HE GOES TO CHURCH SOLELY TO MAKE A GOOD IMPRESSION WITH HIS NEIGHBORS—AND THIS IS TO BE ENCOURAGED—EVENTUALLY HE WILL FIND THAT HE IS GRADUALLY BEING LED TO THE RIGHT SORT OF LIFE. IT IS EASY TO ACQUIRE THE GO TO CHURCH HABIT. TRY IT ONE SUNDAY. WHEN ANOTHER SAB-BATH ROLLS AROUND YOU'LL FEEL A PANG OF REMORSE IF YOU DON'T GO AGAIN. GET ACQUAINTED WITH YOUR CLERGY-MAN. YOU'LL FIND THAT HE IS NOT A BAD SORT. TALK TO HIM. IF YOU HAVE ANY CRITICISM OF THE CHURCH OR ITS METHODS, DON'T TALK ABOUT IT ON THE OUTSIDE, BUT TELL HIM. HE'LL MEET YOU HALFWAY. NONE REALIZES MORE THAN HE HOW HARD IT IS TO WORK UP AN INTEREST IN RE-LIGIOUS AFFAIRS AMONG SOME PEOPLE.

But give him and his church a chance.
GO TO CHURCH once!
Then go again!

DON'T BE MISLED.

Cloverport Citizens Should Read
and Heed This Advice.

Kidney trouble is dangerous and often fatal.

Don't experiment with something new and untried.

Use a tested kidney remedy.

Begin with Doan's Kidney Pills.

Used in kidney troubles 50 years.

Recommended here and everywhere.

The following statement forms convincing proof.

Mrs. Edward Cullen, Eighth street, Cannelton, Ind., says: "I always praise Doan's Kidney Pills when I have the opportunity. I tried many remedies but none seemed to take hold of the trouble like Doan's Kidney Pills.
They acted like magic on my kidneys,
and it wasn't long before I was permanently cured. You may continue to publish my former endorsement of this remedy."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't ago did not open all her trunks. In going through one of them he found the letter that had never been read.

After its perusal he sent it to his brother, William, in Wichita, who immediately wrote to the officials of Essen. Search was begun and, the thought to be dead, was found. A correspondence was begun between the cousins, Herman and Will Tabeling, who had never seen each other. After close correspondence they are to meet next month. As a means of identification they will wear pennants of purple silk bearing in white letters the word "Wichita." Herman wrote that his pennant had arrived, and that he would meet the Vanderland as she docks at Rostock. The two will proceed by way of Hamburg to Essen where William Tabeling will show to his aunt the letter she wrote to his father thirty-one years ago. That woman is now eighty years of age and walks one mile to church every Sunday with her nephew, night-watchman, Charles Grant. Garcia had entered the store for the purpose of robbery. While the fight was going on in the rear of the shop, the proprietor summoned night-watchman Grant. The officer ran through the shop and into the rear where the fight was in progress.

Emerging from the brightly lighted shop into the dark yard he could not see the Mexican who was crouching in the shadow of a fence. The Mexican attacked the officer slashing him across the abdomen and inflicting wounds about the shoulders, neck and arms. Fighting for his life, Grant threw the Mexican away from him and brought his revolver into play, shooting the Mexican through the throat. Not wanting to shoot again he clubbed Garcia over the head with the butt of his revolver. Dazed and semi-unconscious from the wounds he had received, Grant staggered a block and a half before he was overcome. Help was summoned and the wounded man was taken to the Visalia general hospital where doctors White, Grove and Preston operated upon him. At an early hour it was reported that Grant's condition, while serious is not necessarily fatal. Charlie

THE PRIMARY

On next Saturday the voters of Kentucky will go to the polls and express their choice of candidates to be nominated by their respective parties for United States Senator, short and long terms, and for members of the Lower House of Congress. Very little interest is manifest in the Republican or Progressive nominations, and the same may be said of the short term nomination for United States Senator. As to the Congressional race, while some opposition exists to Mr. Johnson growing out of the distribution of patronage, yet it does not amount to enough to jeopardize his nomination, as it is conceded that he will carry every county in the district.

In the race for United States Senator for the long term considerable interest has been awakened within the past few weeks. Here the race is between Beckham and Stanley, Gov. McCreary having but a small following.

At a primary held in November 1906, Gov. Beckham was nominated for United States Senator, carrying ninety-one counties out of 119. He was opposed in that race by the powerful liquor interests, whom he had offended because as Governor he had upheld the Constitution and the laws of the State. The Legislature, which met in January, 1908, was Democratic on joint ballot, morally pledged to carry out the will of the people as expressed in the primary. William J. Bryan came personally to Frankfort and addressed this Legislature, urging them not to enfeeble the power which the people had given them, but to carry out the will of the majority. Notwithstanding his pleading, the same liquor interests, led by the Courier-Journal, which had fought him for the nomination, continued their warfare and were able to procure four men—alleged Democrats—who voted for the Republican nominee, W. O. Bradley, and elected him. On the day following Bradley took his seat on the floor of the State Senate, where the County Unit Bill was pending, and delivered enough Republican votes against this measure to defeat it.

With the memory of all these things fresh in the minds of the people, with Mr. Stanley, the recognized candidate now of the same liquor interests that bolted and defeated Beckham and the Democratic party. A vote for Stanley is nothing more nor less than an endorsement of McNutt, Charlton, Mueller and Lillard.

Gov. Beckham has never yet been defeated at the hands of the people. He will be triumphantly nominated next Saturday, and the Democrats of Breckinridge county will add to his majority in the State.

THE MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN.

Seldom are the people of Cloverport, Hardinsburg, Irvington and Stephensport called on to contribute to any cause except those in their churches and lodges, and then the people always do what they are asked and often more than is expected. Now that a campaign is on to raise a fund to finance a visiting nurse for this county, it is hoped that all the towns will help the measure to overflowing. Breckinridge county will not do this work by halves, but will complete the task in the finest detail. Many of the best women of our county have undertaken to make the campaign a success by pledging themselves to solicit new members at one dollar each within the next three days. They have set vigorously to work these hot days and they should be given a cordial response.

A visiting nurse, one who will look after the sick, tell them their needs and the way to prevent illness, will mean a great deal to our county, as well as to each of the towns mostly concerned. We who are well need this nurse, the tubercular patients need her, and we must not let this opportunity go by without taking advantage of all it affords.

The Masons of Irvington and vicinity have announced a big barbecue and picnic for Saturday August 15. Get ready for it. They have had plenty of rain in that section, crops are good and everybody's happy. You may expect a good time and plenty to eat and drink.

"When I make a promise to a man I try to keep it," said President Wilson in a recent address in Philadelphia. "The most honorable and distinguished nation in the world is the nation that can keep its promise to its own hurt."

The Republicans of Breckinridge county owe to Sherman Ball a big vote. His nomination in the primary is conceded. He will carry nearly every county in the district, and his own county should give him its unanimous support.

People do not like to hear about your illness. Don't talk about indigestion, and even an operation is a poor subject of conversation.

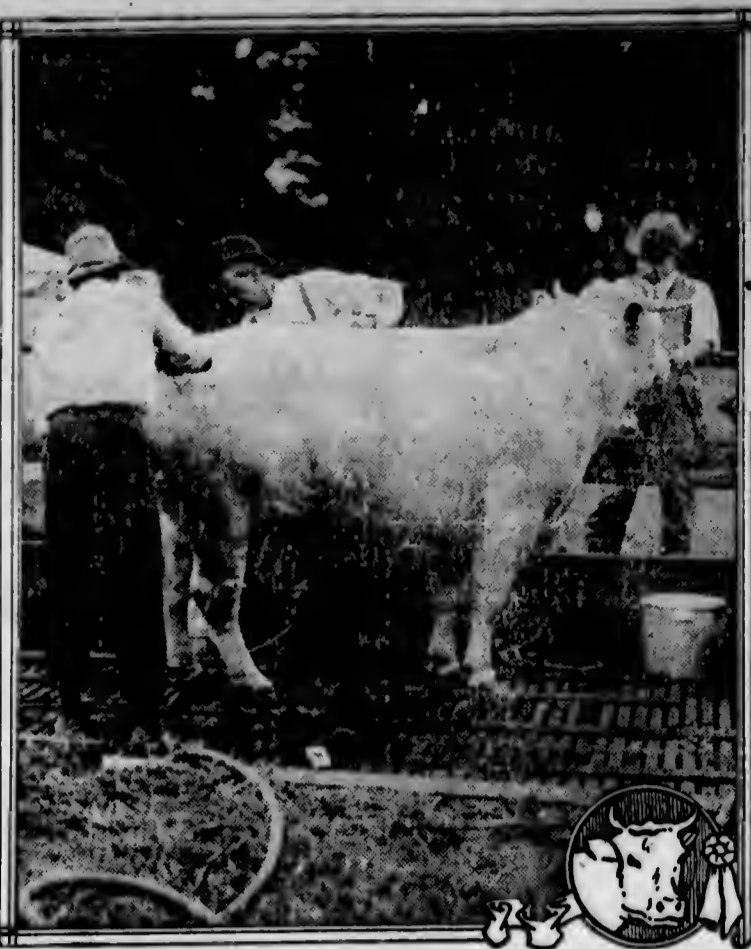

Don't forget the fair. It is getting nearer every day. Let everybody be ready.

JUDGE O'DOHERTY IS FOR BECKHAM

Democrats Should Set The Seal Of Condemnation On Perfidy. Wipe Stain From State --High Merit Revealed In Beckham's Record Entitled Him To Nomination.

A FALSE CHARGE BRANDED

Judge Matt O'Doherty gave to the Louisville papers last week the following statement, setting forth his reasons why the Democrats of Kentucky and Louisville should cast their votes for Mr. J. C. W. Beckham for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator:

"I cannot bring myself to believe for an instant that self-respecting Democrats men who have regard for our party's honor in public affairs, or in party organization or discipline, will let the opportunity pass unimproved which the coming primary affords, to set the seal of their condemnation on the perfidy by which Gov. Beckham was deprived of the Senatorship six years ago, after having been regularly nominated for the office by the party he had so faithfully served.

"It will, I am confident, never be said of the great body of Kentucky Democrats that they condoned fraud or treachery by neglecting the opportunity of setting the seal of their condemnation upon it when the opportunity offered. In no other way, than by the nomination of Gov. Beckham, is it possible to effectually wipe out the stain on the fair name of Kentucky, which the conspiracy by which his defeat was accomplished placed upon it. Party integrity, party organization, party discipline and public decency alike demand Gov. Beckham's nomination and election. Thus, and thus only, can the wrong done to him and to the Democratic party of Kentucky in his person be righted.

Desperate Enemies Of Beckham.

"Gov. Beckham's political enemies disclose the hopelessness and desperation of their opposition to his nomination by the absurdly false charges they have made against him. No slander that can be thought of appears too despicable in their eyes, if only it can be used to delude or deceive. One of the latest and most ridiculously false charges made against him is that of religious bigotry. No one should be deceived by it. I brand the charge as shamefully untrue. Mr. Beckham's record of seven years as Governor of the State refutes it. He is, as all who know him must admit, a typical Kentuckian and a typical American, as absolutely free from the stain of religious prejudice—which is the peculiar vice of small minds and small men—as it is possible for a man to be. Let no one be deceived by the slander. It is an invention discreditable to its authors and will recoil upon them.

Nomination Due Beckham.

"Gov. Beckham deserves well of his fellow-citizens. He was called to the chair of the Chief Executive of the Commonwealth when the State was in a condition bordering upon anarchy. Violence and bloodshed were averted by the cool sense, admirable judgment and indomitable courage which he, although then a very young man, brought to the discharge of his duties as Governor. He merits the honor he is now seeking. He has a double claim to it—first, because he is eminently fitted for the office, and, because, as all men know, he is a most unblushing treacherer. He has served the office six years, and having won by overwhelming vote his party's nomination, his nomination now is due alike to him and the Democratic party. Its honor and his right are alike involved. Perfidy should never have permanent triumph. He will, I believe, distance all his opponents in Louisville, and these can be no doubt that he will win by a large majority in the State."

LINDSEY MORRISON.

This little notice with the accompanying photograph is intended to call the attention of the Republicans of Breckinridge county to my candidacy for the Republican nomination for Congress at the primary, August, 1st, and is especially directed to those whom I have not had an opportunity to see or write.

Breckinridge is the home of one of my opponents but I have schoolmates, pupils and old friends in various sections of the county whom I am sure will be pleased to learn of my candidacy and glad to vote for me.

I never ran for office before and have no record to point to other than a clean and busy life, much of it devoted to the interests of the community in which my lot was cast. I have lived in nine of the thirteen counties of the Fourth District and have warm friends in the other four. I shall appreciate the thoughtful consideration of every one and beg to assure each one I shall be grateful, always, for any kindly interest shown me.

If I am nominated I should like every Republican to write me giving name and address for I shall want to see every one as soon after the primary as possible.

Sincerely,
LINDSEY MORRISON.

The Fourth Annual Hay Ride Biggest Society Affair
Ever Given in Cloverport. Hosts and Guests
Have a Grand Time.

It is probable that Tar Springs, even in her palmy days, ever entertained as many young people in one party than she did Saturday and Sunday, the event being the fourth annual hay ride of Mr. Fred Pierce and Mr. Frank Weatherholt, the dates being the birthdays of the two friends.

Tar Springs has had all kinds of picnics, hay-rides, dances and parties, but this double birthday celebration was the biggest affair ever given in Breckenridge county. The hosts are receiving many happy returns of the two days. Seventy-five guests were taken to the resort for the event, some returning home Sunday morning and the others remaining until three o'clock that afternoon. The Cloverport crowd, chaperoned by Mrs. R. B. Pierce, Mrs.
Henry Pate and Mrs. T. F. Sawyer, left town Saturday at 8 a. m. in the decorated hay wagons of Mr. Floyd Carter and Mr. James Frank. At 11 o'clock a wagon returned for the Irvington party which was chaperoned by Mrs. D. C. Heron and Mrs. Louis
Jolly. The members were: Misses
May Heron, Mary Alexander, Eliza
Piggott, Elizabeth Crider, Elizabeth
Cain, Lottie Bandy, Gueidy Bramlette,
Messrs. Leslie Jones, Hayden Bram-

Louisville at 7 p. m., and a special trip to the springs was made in their honor that night.
The hotel was turned over to the Committee on Arrangements and Mrs.
Thompson, the proprietress, was lovely to the guests. The rooms were crowded with young girls, who had a world of fun, trying to get a bit of sleep be-

Miss Frances Smith has returned home from Louisville, where she was the guest of Mrs. Homer Dawley two weeks. While there she and her sister, Miss Elia Smith, were entertained at the home of Mrs. Leslie Mansfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Allison Pate and two children, of Owensboro, motored to Cloverport last week and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pate. They also visited relatives at his boyhood home near Hardin's school house.

Mrs. Amelia Cummings, of St. Petersburg, Fla., is visiting her cousin,
Mrs. H. V. Duncan. She arrived here Friday from Chicago, where she has been spending the summer on the lakes. Mrs. Cummings is a successful real estate dealer of the South.

Prof. McCoy Home.

Prof. Rufus McCoy has returned home from the State Normal at Bowling Green, and was met in Louisville

Different committees served the meals, the Irvington party having charge of the Sunday dinner. Everything good to eat was had with ice water, lemonade and hot coffee for breakfast. Music was had Saturday evening, dancing and roller skating were enjoyed on the large pavilion by a number of the guests.

Nothing happened to mar the pleasure of the joyous crowd, and the event will go down in the social history of Cloverport as the biggest event that ever happened at Tar Springs.

HAY RIDE NOTES.

A young man from Louisville said he laughed so much that it shook all the freckles off his face.

Few of the boys got little sleep and Sunday morning they fell over like they were dead.

Several of the party came in Sunday morning and four walked home. On their way they stopped at the home of Mr. Joe Ballman for a drink of water.
Although Mrs. Ballman had thirteen to get breakfast for, she invited the visitors in and gave them hot coffee, bacon, homemade lightbread and jelly with good country butter. Her hospitality will always be remembered and "Uncle Grant's" kindness never forgotten.

The Rev. Mr. Frank and Mrs. Frank, jolly members of the party, returned home early Sunday in time for all the church services.

The twenty hotel guests welcomed the crowd and the cottagers sat out until the late hours watching the young people promenade from the hotel to the cold spring.

It took $75 to finance the hay-ride, which was met by the two hosts, with the exception of $30.

Irvington, Ky., July 27. (Special.)
Chas. L. Chamberlain died Sunday morning at 5:30 o'clock after a lingering illness of Bright's disease. Mr. Chamberlain was known as a very prominent Mason, and has been connected with the I. O. O. F. and St. L. R. R. for a number of years. He was also associated with the Webster Stone Company.

Mr. Chamberlain leaves his wife, Mrs.
Maggie Chamberlain, one son, F. S.
Chamberlain, and a sister, Mrs. Clara
Garrett, both of Cleveland; a brother,
Warren Chamberlain, of Chardon, O.

A short funeral service was held at the home in this place Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock by the Rev. Mr. S. J.
Wade, after which the body was taken to Chardon, Ohio, for interment. Mrs.
J. T. Mattingly, Messrs. J. L. Henry
and R. L. Lyons accompanied Mrs.
Chamberlain to Chardon.

Dr. B. F. Forbes, of Laconia, Ind., and Mrs. M. A. Brandenburg, of Albany, Mo., arrived Sunday to be with Mrs. Chamberlain for a while.

MULTIPLE PERSONALITY.

One Englishwoman Who Showed Five Distinct Natures.

Rare cases of true multiple personality are known to have occurred and are of extraordinary interest. The most famous is that of "Miss Beauchamp"— the real name has always most properly been withheld which was carefully studied by Dr. Morton Prince.
By intricate steps he arrived at the conviction that in her case no fewer than five distinct personalities could be traced. The most vivid of all was the one who called herself "Sally."

The normal Miss Beauchamp was a somewhat neurotic woman, the constant prey of slight ailments and without much zest in life. After a nervous shock Sally suddenly became able to take possession of her from time to time, at first with apparent diffidence and then, as it seemed, whenever she pleased. When Sally was dominant Miss Beauchamp's whole nature was changed. She became lively, irresponsible, fond of all the violent exercises which the normal woman disliked, exuberantly healthy and different from Miss Beauchamp in every respect. She could not explain herself, but protested that she had "always been here," but could not get control, and one of the most wonderful and best attested facts in this mysterious case is that she confidently asserted her memory of events which occurred when the real Miss Beauchamp was in her cradle.

For Miss Beauchamp, the contemporary of the same body, Sally had the most intense dislike, never speaking of her except with contempt and doing all she could to cause her harm and annoyance. Miss Beauchamp had a special horror of insects and reptiles, and Sally was accustomed to gratify her spite by collecting frogs, toads and spiders and dispatching them to what the inadequacy of language compels us to call herself.

Miss Beauchamp detested walking,
so Sally, when she was dominant,
would go for a long tramp after carefully leaving all her money behind, and then, when she was ten miles or more from home, would suddenly disappear and, abjuring the original Miss Beauchamp to assume control, leave the unfortunate woman to make her way back as best she could.—London Globe.

SENATOR CAMDEN ON CO-OPERATION

Farmers Realizing Only One-Half of What They Are Entitled

LOSS OF LABOR AND TIME

Increase Efficiency By Going Over Farm Problems Together—Has Unbounded Faith in the Future of Kentucky—Help Rural Communities Through the Schools and Colleges of State.

Washington.—(Special)—Hon. Johnson N. Camden, junior senator from Kentucky, after a visit to the Department of Agriculture the past week, talked in an interesting way of the problems of the farm and of what is being done in his own state, as well as by the government in connection with the state agricultural colleges, towards co-ordinating educational work for the benefit of the farmer. Mr. Camden has unbounded faith in the future of Kentucky as an agricultural and horticultural state.

Faith in State's Future.

In discussing his visit to the department and its result, Senator Camden said:

"This is the first opportunity I have had where I could go into certain details, with any degree of leisure, with the Agricultural Department. You know I have always felt that Kentucky will be a great farming state.

Johnson N. Camden.

and the character of her agriculture will determine the character and development of her people. Some one has well said that a people can not be greater or stronger than their soil. "I gave the barbecue last summer to emphasize a fact that our farmers did not, in my opinion, fully realize and that is in mining, manufacturing and all productive enterprises, that the basic form of wealth is in itself about only half, or 50 per cent of the problem involved—the other 50 per cent is in organization, which really means co-operation.

What Farmers Are Realizing.

"Granting that our soil would grade No. 1 in fertility—which in many cases it will not do, but by intelligent and industrious methods it can be made so—as we now stand with our imperfect system of soil education organization and co-operation, we farmers are only realizing but about half of what we are entitled to from our efforts and from our farms.

"It was a beginning of a campaign among our farmers of education and co-operation. I foresaw then that the wonderful mine of information and vitally valuable facts, that our Federal Government had in store, would not be beneficial to our own farmers unless they were prepared to avail themselves of it collectively.

"It was necessary to organize, to establish team work among ourselves we must trust one another if we are to prosper further as a people and advance the solidarity of Kentucky interests.

Agricultural Education.

"To my mind the first thing to do is to co-ordinate the research work at the State University and Experiment Station, at Lexington, and the two Normal schools, Eastern and Western, with the Federal Department of Agriculture, thereby increasing efficiency by preventing the loss in labor and time. I am delighted to say that steps are being taken to bring that about.

"But research work, either by government or state, would be of little value to the farmer unless some way were found to teach him the things discovered by scientists in the experiment stations, and hence we have the extension and demonstration work.

"I was told that the department has a great work along this line and that it is co-ordinating its activity with the activity of a similar character in the state agricultural colleges. Congress has recently passed a bill providing for co-operative extension work in agriculture and home economics, to be carried on by co-operation between the Department of Agriculture at Washington and the various state agricultural colleges, and the Secretary of Agriculture has taken the very broad view that this furnishes the opportunity for also all of the work carried on under direct appropriations to the department. Large Sum Devoted to It.

"In future the amount of money being devoted to this kind of education to help the farmers will be very large. The Smith-Lever act gives $10,000 a year for the first year to each agricultural college. Thereafter it is increased in each state in proportion to rural inhabitants until, at the end of eight years, the total appropriation will amount to $1,580,000 and that same amount will be appropriated annually thereafter.

"Under this arrangement there will be coming to the State of Kentucky from this Smith-Lever appropriation, approximately $154,103 per annum which must be supplemented by appropriation made by the state or raised from contributions within the state, amounting to $144,103, or a grand total of nearly $300,000 per annum.

Getting Results in Woodford.

"In Woodford county we are getting great results by co-ordinating the activities of the Farmers' Union, the Y. M. C. A. and the county demonstrator or expert. They are co-operating.

"The Federal Department of Agriculture has many lines of work which they want to transmit to the state colleges and through them to the people, such as extermination of hog cholera, boys' corn club work and the girls' canning clubs, the establishing of dairy experts, cattle feeding experts, expert horticulturists for the apple and other fruit industries and others.

Country School Problem.

"Another and most important part of the work of helping rural communities is the problem of education in the country schools. The State University and the two Normal schools of the state are vitally interested in this problem. We must have a real education that fits young men and women for the activities of life in the country, broadening their views of life, arousing their love of the land itself and their appreciation of the opportunities of country life, and fitting them to be more useful citizens in a successful agricultural community.

"It is the province of the Normal schools to train teachers who have these broad visions of the rural school as a most important center of influence in the upbuilding of every community.

Schools Teach Practical Things.

"A good many of our country schools are little town schools in the country. The schools are beginning more and more to teach the practical things of life. Boys' corn clubs and girls' canning and other clubs are beginning to get hold of the rural school problem and to turn the attention of the teachers and the child upon the practical and valuable things which may be done as a part of the education of that school.

"I am very happy to say that I was told that in the broad extension work in agriculture in the state of Kentucky, the which we are just now entering, the State Normal schools are vitally interested, and that district agents who are representatives of this united extension work. "I was given to understand that the State Department of Agriculture and other agricultural activities within the state are all joining in this general movement.

Marketing of Farm Products.

"Another and most important line of agricultural endeavor, in which both the National Department of Agriculture and the state are interested is a new line but recently undertaken the study of the business side of farming and the economic conditions surrounding the farmer, which plays such an important part in making his efforts successful.

"No matter how good a business man the farmer might be on his own farm, no matter how much scientific agriculture he might know and practice, and how well he might do his work, there may be, and often are circumstances outside of his control which would still prevent him from making a success of his work.

"For example, marketing conditions may be against him, and in this we have one of the big problems of country life to-day. The Department of Agriculture, in the last appropriation bill, received an appropriation of $200,000 for the study and dissemination of knowledge regarding the scientific marketing of the products of the farm.

Movement Deserves Support.

"Much might be said on the side of the subject of the organization of farmers and of the communities generally for improvement of agricultural, social and economic conditions.

"With the united effort on the part of the rural church, the rural schools and Normal colleges, the College of Agriculture, the Experiment Station, and the United States Department of Agriculture, much good can be accomplished. We have undeveloped resources and agricultural opportunities in Kentucky, as yet untouched.

"We can maintain the highest type of civilization only by having a successful and prosperous agriculture. One of the most beneficial influences that I see is the union of the interests of the Federal Department of Agriculture with our College of Agriculture of the State University, with the Normal schools and other educational activities of the state, to give to the farmers and their families throughout the state of Kentucky that degree of service which they ought to have. At the present time there are twenty-two county agents, with an additional thirteen women county agents in girls' club work.

WHEN TO CUT ALFALFA.

Best Hay Obtained When First Blooms Appear.

It has for years been considered that alfalfa for hay should be cut when about one-half of the plants are in bloom, says the Kansas Farmer. During recent years the best alfalfa growers have been cutting when they could so soon as the first blooms appear. Such growers are strongly inclined to the belief that the best hay is at this time obtained and also that cutting at such time is best for the succeeding crop. There are two considerations in the harvesting of alfalfa for hay. The first is that of obtaining hay of the highest feeding quality and the other that of cutting at such times as will result in the largest annual yield.

If the crop is allowed to stand until it is in full bloom the stems become woody and a considerable proportion of the leaves are lost in the harvest. It would seem, therefore, that from the standpoint of hay quality the cutting reached as near maturity as possible, but before such time as will result in woody stems and leaf loss.

Every alfalfa grower has observed that just in advance of blooming the crown of the alfalfa plant starts new shoots for the succeeding crop, and the editor is inclined to the belief that the appearance of these shoots is a better guide as to the time of cutting than is the bloom. If the crop is allowed to stand until a considerable proportion of the plants are in bloom the grower will note that the sprouts which are to produce the succeeding crop become dwarfed and will not produce as much hay as if the crop had been removed and the crown shoots been allowed to grow without interruption. It is our belief, therefore, that the largest yield of best quality hay will result from the cutting of alfalfa just as soon as these new shoots from the crown appear, provided, of course, this be permitted by conditions of weather and other farm work. To be sure, if alfalfa is to be used largely for horse feed the hay should be ripe and so cut later than if it is to be eaten by other stock.

A Bumper Apple Crop.

Applies this year promise a heavy yield in Maryland and North Carolina, the finest crop in the history of Colorado, an unusual crop in Michigan, good crops in Virginia, Georgia and South Carolina and prospects in other states generally good or above average, according to reports to the department of agriculture.

BEEES ON THE FARM.

The hum of the busy little honeybee should be heard on every farm. A moderate amount of care given to these industrious workers will help out considerably in these days of the high cost of living by providing a supply of the most delicious and healthful of all sweets for the table. It is especially good for cooking purposes and is far superior to any other sweet for the little folks.

It is not necessary to go into extensive beekeeping in order to have honey for the home. A half a dozen colonies when properly cared for will give the average family all that it can use and possibly some to sell.

Of course if the farmer cared to do so he could easily keep a larger number of colonies and add to his income by their work. Quite often the women of the farm attend to the bees and buy relief from the drudgery of farm life through the aid of these little insects.

In days gone by most of the bees kept on farms were to be found in hollow logs, commonly known as "bee gums," or else in tight boxes with a few sticks nailed across on the inside, to which the bees attached their combs.

The favorite method of removing the honey or "robbing the bees," as it was called, was to smother them by placing the hive over a pit in which brimstone was burning. Then the honey could be taken out, but it would be necessary to get more bees next year. However, this cruel method has passed away, and now almost every beekeeper uses hives with movable frames, and the honey can be removed without killing a single bee.

GARFIELD

Don't forget Masonic picnic at Irvington, Saturday, Aug. 15

Quite a crowd of young folks spent an enjoyable day with Miss Laura LeGrand Sunday. Some of the names caught were Misses Cora Wood and Ida Dowell, Messrs Verda Brown and Frank Bullock.

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Haynes entertained Sunday the following guests: Rev. DeHart, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Poole and children, Katherine, Robert, Jr., and Franklin, Miss Maud Bullock, Tom Dowell and little Mildred Sandbach.

Miss Pearl Bell Mattingly and Milton Basham were guests of Miss Cammie Combs, of Cloverport, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Ora Gray and son, Thomas, attended church at Custer Sunday and were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Gray.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Brulington and daughter, Miss Margaret Leigh, visited Mr. and Mrs. Austin LeGrand Sunday.

Roy and Lena Snider were guests of their grandmother, Mrs. Elijah Driskell, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Macy entertained last Sunday at their beautiful home the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Austin LeGrand and son, Charles, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Brulington and son, Homer, Mr. and Mrs. Joe McCrums and children, Raymond and Rudolph, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Brulington and daughter, Margaret Leigh, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Macy, Mrs. C. L. Brulington and children, Marvin, Evelyn and C. L., Jr., and Grandma Brulington.

Mr. and Mrs. Livia Meadow, of Kingswood, attended Quarterly Meeting at Rosetta, and enroute home were guests of Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Harned.

Charlie Barnes' brother is with him for the winter. He will attend school here and help Mr. Barnes in the store.

Albert Richardson, of Oklahoma, is visiting his nephew, I. B. Richardson. Geo. Snider has been indisposed for several days, but is reported better.

Miss Nancy Board visited Miss Laura LeGrand Tuesday.

Mrs. Geo. Johnson who moved to Blair, Neb., several years ago writes very encouragingly of crops there. She says they have the finest garden she has ever had, with such an abundance of vegetables.

Rev. Leslie DeHart filled his appointment at the Baptist church here Saturday and Sunday. Rev. DeHart's time with this church expired with this meeting and we are sorry to give him up. The church has called no one yet to serve them for the coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meadow and Mrs. Avery Haynes were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Basham.

Quite a number from our community attended camp meeting at Kingswood

THE AUGUST CENTURY (FICTION NUMBER)

The August Century is, as usual, a Midsummer Fiction Number, with short stories to appeal to a wide variety of tastes—nine altogether, including "Under Silken Skies", a story of Southern horse-racing and love-making by Maria Thompson Davies, and "Hoodooed", a tale of dark life and superstition, by Alice Hegan Rice, of "Mrs. Wiggs" fame.

For those who do not care for fiction, there are further "Reminiscences of Tolstoy", by his son; part three of "Bodin's Note-Book", Marie Sukloff's story of her escape from a Siberian prison, and a paper on "The Slaves of America", by Professor Edward Alsworth Ross, besides new chapters from Arnold Bennett's delightful "Log of the Velsa", and of Albert Bigelow Paine's "The Car That Went Abroad."

ROOSEVELT TELLS OF QUEER GAME

How Indians in Brazil Play Football With Their Heads.

HANDS KEPT OFF THE BALL

Players Show Marvelous Dexterity, and Their Reckless Disregard of the Chances of Personal Injury Amazes the Uninitiated Onlookers—Colonel Describes Extraordinary Spiders.

[From Colonel Roosevelt's fifth article describing his journey in the Brazilian wilderness in Scribner's Magazine for August, 1914. Copyright, 1914, by Charles Scribner's Sons.]

A unique game of football, played with the head by the Parecis Indians, is one of the unusual things described by the colonel. He writes as follows:

These Parecis Indians enthusiastically play football with their heads. The game is not only native to them, but I have never heard or read of its being played by any other tribe or people. They use a light hollow rubber ball of their own manufacture. It is circular and about eight inches in diameter.

The players are divided into two sides and stationed much as in association football, and the ball is placed on the ground to be put in play as in football. Then a player runs forward, throws himself flat on the ground and butts the ball toward the opposite side.

A Remarkable Performance.

This first butt, when the ball is on the ground, never lifts it much, and it rolls and bounces toward the opponents. One or two of the latter run toward it; one throws himself flat on his face and butts the ball back. Usually this butt lifts it, and it flies back in a curve well up in the air, and an opposite player, rushing toward it, catches it on his head with such a swing of his heavy neck and such precision and address that the ball bounces back through the air as a football soars after a drop kick.

If the ball flies off to one side or the other it is brought back and again put in play. Often it will be sent to and fro a dozen times, from head to head, until finally it rises with such a sweep that it passes far over the heads of the opposite players and descends behind them. Then shrill, rolling cries of good humored triumph arise from the victors, and the game instantly begins again with fresh zest. There are, of course, no such rules as in a specialized ball game of civilization, and I saw no disputes. There may be eight or ten or many more players on each side. The ball is never touched with the hands or feet or with anything except the top of the head. It is hard to decide whether to wonder most at the dexterity and strength with which it is hit or butted with the head as it comes down through the air or at the reckless speed and skill with which the players throw themselves headlong on the ground to return the ball if it comes low down. Why they do not grind off their noses I cannot imagine.

Wonderful Colony of Spiders.

We came across many queer insects. One red grasshopper when it flew seemed as big as a small sparrow, and we passed in some places such multitudes of active little green grasshoppers that they frightened the mules. At our camping place we saw an extraordinary colony of spiders. It was among some dwarf trees, standing a few yards apart from one another by the water.

When we reached the camping place early in the afternoon—the pack train did not get in until nearly sunset, just ahead of the rain—no spiders were out. They were under the leaves of the trees. Their webs were tenantless and indeed for the most part were broken down. But at dusk they came out from their hiding places, two or three hundred of them in all, and at once began to repair the old and spin new webs. Each spun its own circular web and sat in the middle, and each web was connected on several sides with other webs, while those nearest the trees were hung to them by spun ropes, so to speak.

The result was a kind of sheet of web consisting of scores of wheels, in each of which the owner and proprietor sat, and there were half a dozen such sheets each extending between two trees. The webs could hardly be seen, and the effect was of scores of tiny, formidable-looking spiders poised in mid-air, equidistant from one another between each pair of trees.

When darkness and rain fell they were still out fixing their webs and pouncing on the occasional insects that blundered into the webs. I have no question that they are nocturnal; they certainly hide in the daytime, and it seems impossible that they can come out only for a few minutes at dusk.

Speaker Clark's Bridal Spoon.

The "Champ Clark wedding spoon" has appeared in Washington and young friends of the speaker and his family who marry may expect to be the recipients of a unique gift. The spoons were devised by the speaker when he received an invitation to the wedding of one of his young acquaintances. The spoon is made of silver and bears a portrait of the speaker in bas-relief.

SUCH A DAINTY HAT!

Her Superior English.

James Ross and his daughter Janet from Canada visited relatives in Chicago recently. Day after day Janet and her father went sightseeing, always together.

Janet's aunt, noticing this, one day suggested that she let her father go downtown alone some time, jokingly adding, "Men do not like to have women always tagging along."

"Aye, ahnty, but he wuhuts me," explained Janet earnestly. "He canna thole to stir out o' the house his hune. Ye wadna believe hoo fast he is ony where w'oot me. Ye see, faither tan'ks se brail Scoutie that stranger folk dinna ken what it's a' about, an' I hae tae gang w' him tae dae the conversin'—Everybody's."

Confusion.

Three ladies as they shot in an observation car Californiaward through the superb scenery in the world felt to talking about dogs.

"I don't know a thing about dogs," said the first lady. "They're all just dogs to me. If I have a preference, though, it's for the cob."

"Cobs are nice—so affectionate," agreed the second lady. "But I'm no dog sharp either. Still, I must say my choice of a dog would be a mustang. They're such good watch dogs, aren't they?"

"I don't know one dog from another," said the third lady. "I just divide them into big dogs and little dogs. I'm very fond of a hackney, though—I mean, of course, for a lap dog."—Chicago Record-Herald.

LABELED BY CARLYLE.

The Tag He Plastered Upon a Famous English Historian.

In the "Letters of Charles Elliot Norton" is this amusing epistle, which was written by Norton in 1873:

The other day Froide said to me: "It's a great shame that some one shouldn't keep a record of Carlyle's talk. He never fails to say something memorable or admirably humorous. Why, he called somebody the other day 'an inspired red herring!'"

"Pray," said I, "who is it that deserves such a label?" But Froide had forgotten. . . . Some days afterward I asked Carlyle to whom he had applied the phrase, but he had forgotten and said he trusted he was not to be made accountable for all the extravagant phrases he had uttered in talk—there would be "vera many to rise in judgment" against him; but he wouldn't disown "the inspired red herring."

I told all this to Forster, abusing Froide at the same time, much to Carlyle's amusement, which was increased when Forster broke out: "By heavens, my dear Norton, I heard that previous utterance, but I, too, have forgotten to whom it was fitted. Mrs. Forster will remember." But when we went to the drawing room Mrs. Forster could not remember, and Forster called down wrath on her and himself. The next morning the post brought me a note from him at breakfast time, which contained only the name Henry Thomas Buckle.

How To Give Quinine To Children.

FEBRILINE is the trade-mark name given to an improved Quinine. It is a Tasteless Syrup, pleasant to take and does not disturb the stomach. Children take it and never know it is Quinine. Also especially adapted to adults who cannot take ordinary Quinine. Does not nauseate or cause nervousness nor ring in the head. Try it the next time you need Quinine for any purpose. Ask for Quinine original package. The name FEBRILINE is blown in the bottle. 25 cents.

ENGLAND'S BLACK MEN.

They Are Remnants of the Ancient Blue Painted Britons.

Practically every Englishman is Anglo-Saxon by blood, but there still are, according to scientists, one or two corners in England where there are colonies directly descended from the ancient Britons, the blue painted men who, according to the history books, inhabited England before the Anglo-Saxons killed them off.

If you came across them you would at once notice something curious about them. They do not look like English men at all. They are short, as swarthy as Spaniards, with very narrow heads and with curiously bent profiles.

There are whole villages of these modern ancient Britons, though the villages are very few and very out of the way. It is this out of the wayness that has kept them so distinct from the country people around them.

Some of these villages have not even had road communication with the rest of the world till comparatively recent times.

One of these curious colonies is at Dunsfold, in Surrey, Bedfordshire, too, has some villages of "black men."—London Tit-Bits.

STARTS FOR KARLUK'S MEN.

Revenue Cutter Will Race With Famous For Mercooned Crew.

The revenue cutter Bear, with Captain Robert Bartlett, master of the wrecked Stefansson exploring ship Karluk, ahead, is on its way to the Arctic to make off the eighteen white men and four Eskimos of Bartlett's command who are marooned on Wrangel Island, where they sought refuge after the Karluk was crushed in the ice north of Herald Island last winter. The Bear carries provisions for nine months.

Captain Bartlett says the Karluk's men would run out of provisions about the middle of August, and the Bear will make every effort to reach them before that time. They should, however, be able to subsist on game, in which Wrangel Island abounds, if the rescue party is delayed.

Not So Outiful.

"Where will Mrs. Dobs go now that both her daughters are married—to her son-in-law's house in Birmingham or to that of her son-in-law in Leeds?" "One wants her in Birmingham, and the other wishes she would go to Leeds."

"What outiful sons-in-law!" "I beg your pardon. The one in Birmingham wants her in Leeds; the one in Leeds wants her in Birmingham."—London Tit-Bits.

SANITARY SURVEY OF OHIO RIVER NOW ON

Ice Cream, Milk and Water of Cloverport Tested—Experts Say River is Full of Typhoid Germs—Six Men Here.

HAVE HOUSE-BOAT AND MOTOR

The United States Public Health Service is making a sanitary survey of the Ohio River from Pittsburgh, Pa., to Cairo, Ill., with the object of instilling standards of sanitation for towns along the river, as well as to examine and determine the degree of fitness of water and milk for drinking purposes in all towns visited.

The party consists of six men, who are making the trip in a houseboat and a motor launch of high power.

While here they tested the ice-cream, milk and water used in Cloverport, but as yet, no report on the purity of it has been received from them. Some of the girl-house-keepers put an extra shine on their milk buckets, thinking the young men would call and pass judgement on their sanitary dishwashing, but they were disappointed. However, the ears of the buckets got a thorough cleansing.

FURTHER HONOR MEMORY OF VON STEUBEN, WAR HERO.

Statue at Utica, N. Y., Another Testimonial of American Appreciation.

A statue of Baron Friedrich Wilhelm Augustus Henry von Steuben to be dedicated at Utica, N. Y., Aug. 3, will add further honor to the memory of the famous foreign soldier who helped the American colonies in their hour of need.

Von Steuben, who has been described as "the drill master of the Revolution," is buried near Utica, on the estate presented to him by congress. He wrote the drill regulations for the Continental army and had much to do with the organization of the forces.

At the Utica ceremonies, which will be marked by a pageant Aug. 5, 6 and 7, members of the German-American alliance will wear the Continental uniform and carry blunderbusses in the pageant battle of Oriskany, and they will represent the German Palatines following General Herkimer to defeat the British.

General von Steuben was a lieutenant general in the Prussian army during the Seven Years' war. He came to America on his own responsibility and spent his fortune in making soldiers out of the colonists of New York, who had left the city for New Jersey after the victories of Lord Cornwallis had given possession of the metropolis to the British. His manual of instruction for the army was adopted by congress in 1779. He introduced the strictest discipline, a change greatly needed by the army, and which contributed to its ultimate success. He served throughout the war, and his conduct was marked by the utmost valor. He frequently shared his last dollar with the suffering soldiers, as he often did his clothing and camp equipments also.

At the close of the war the State of New Jersey gave him a farm. New York State gave him 10,000 acres of wild land in Oneida county, and the government granted him an annuity of $2,500. He distributed his lands among his aids, his servants and tenants.

In Dec. 7, 1910, a monument to the baron was erected in Washington. Fifty thousand dollars was appropriated for the purpose by congress. A replica of this monument was sent to Germany in 1911.

AUSTRO-SERVIAN CRISIS REACHED

Precipitated by the Murder of Francis Ferdinand.

SPLIT DATES FARTHER BACK

Russia and Germany Concerned in Acute Situation Resulting From Annexation Controversy—First Balkan War Intensified Feeling—Relations More Strained Since Later Conflict.

Austria's demand upon Serbia for the punishment of all the accomplices in the murder of the Archduke Francis Ferdinand and the suppression of all the societies which have fomented rebellion in Bosnia is the climax of a long time disagreement between the two countries.

The demands of Austria upon Serbia are based in part on the confession of Nedeljko Gaborinovic, who threw the bomb at the archduke on June 28, shortly before Gaborinovic shot him. Gaborinovic said that he had formed in Belgrade a conspiracy with Prizip and four others to kill the archduke. One of the four, a Belgrade student named Grubec, has been arrested, but the others are still at large.

The Pan-Serbian union is the society aimed at in the ultimatum. This organization aspires to unite the entire Serbian race.

Long at Odds.

The feeling between the two nations, however, goes back much further, says the New York Times. Only a minority of the Serbian race live in Serbia and the Macedonian territory recently won from the Turks. Montenegro is inhabited by people ethnically and linguistically the same; so are Bosnia and Herzegovina; so is much of the hinterland of Rumania and large districts in Hungary. In other words, a hundred years ago part of the Serbian race was subject to Turkey and part to the Hapsburg monarchy. The part under Turkish domination has won its freedom; the other has not.

Bosnia and the Herzegovina rose against Turkey in 1876, as did Serbia proper. After the congress of Berlin had settled the Balkan question in 1878 these two countries, so far from receiving their freedom, were handed over to Austria, though remaining under nominal Turkish suzerainty. They promptly revolted, and were subdued only after four years of guerilla warfare. Ever since then there has been much bitter feeling and a strong army of occupation has been maintained.

Austria spent large sums on public improvements and felt that she had a property interest in the territory. When, therefore, the Turkish constitutional revolution in 1908 led to a call for representatives to come to a parliament from all parts of the empire, including Bosnia and the Herzegovina, Austria had a good excuse for announcing the annexation of these countries. Serbia protested violently, and was backed by Russia, but Germany's support of Austria led to the withdrawal of the opposition of the Slav powers and the annexation was completed.

Serbia Aroused.

This inflamed the feeling of the Serbians, which the promise of an autonomy diet for the two provinces did nothing to allay. Austria's ambitions still looked toward the ultimate acquisition of Saloniki and Serbian and Turkish territory lay squarely in the way. The first Balkan war made the situation more acute, for Serbian troops easily conquered western Macedonia and forced their way through Albania. When Austrian diplomacy won another victory in the conference of the powers which followed the war, Montenegro was deprived of Scutari, and Serbia was compelled to withdraw her troops from Albania.

The Serbian victories in the second Balkan war were largely neutralized by the fact that Austria seized the occasion to occupy the Sandjak of Novi Bazar, a strip of territory between Montenegro and Serbia which belonged to Turkey till the war of 1912, thus thrusting herself in between the Serbians and their Montenegrin kinsmen. And so another blow was dealt to the unification of the Serbs, which, if ever carried through, would cut off the end the southwestern corner of the Hapsburg empire.

Since then a strong army has been at all times maintained by Austria within striking distance of the Serbian frontier.

ARMY WORMS DEFEATED.

Ditches Filled With Poisoned Food Attract Pests With Effective Result.

The army worm which is ravaging the crops of several eastern states has suffered a knock-out blow in Connecticut. Millions of army worms which threaten the destruction of seventy acres of corn valued at $10,000 on the Branford farm owned by Commodore Morton F. Plant at Eastern Point have been exterminated by fifty laborers working under the direction of Professor H. H. Linscott of the Connecticut Agricultural College.

Poisoned ditches were dug, surrounding the field. In places a poisonous wash consisting of bran, paris green and molasses was strewn. The worms ate it and died. They lay so thickly in the ditches that they were shoveled out like sand.

Questions Camden's Democracy

Gen. Bennett H. Young, speaking at Madisonville in behalf of his candidacy for the short term, said: "It has been persistently and continuously charged, and never denied, that Hon. Johnson N. Camden, now candidate for the United States Senate for the Short term, refused to vote for William Jennings Bryan in 1896, 1900 and 1908, when Mr. Bryan was the Democratic standard bearer for the Presidency. Twenty days ago I publicly stated this and advised Mr. Camden that if he would deny the charge I would take fullest opportunity in every speech I made to right him in this regard. Nothing has come from him on the subject.

"If Mr. Camden could not afford to vote for Mr. Bryan when three times nominated by his party for the Presidency, can the Democrats of Kentucky afford now to vote for Mr. Camden for the United States Senate?

"It may be true that Mr. Camden in 1911 and 1912 paid to the campaign funds the fabulous sum of $45,000, but can he, when refusing to support the party leaders, win the votes of Democrats by contributions to campaign expenses, even though these be large enough to stagger belief?

"As to what party Mr. Camden belonged before 1911 there is no record. He made no speeches, he helped in no canvasses. As far as the public knows he did nothing in advocacy of Democratic principles until 1911. Will two barbeques, where crowds can be fed at twenty-five cents a piece, and big campaign money make a Democrat suitable for United States Senator?"
